

Abstract

A sigma delta modulation loop circuit and related method is provided for use in a device having a radio frequency receiver. The loop is configured to compensate for noise that is generated by the sigma delta loop and that affects radio signals within the range of a radio 5 frequency band according to the operating frequency of the radio frequency tuner.